

Leper In State Pen To Be Sent To Louisiana Hospital

COLUMBUS, March 2—Governor Lausche said today he will commute the prison sentence of the first leper ever discovered in the Ohio Penitentiary if that is necessary to insure the inmate's rapid removal to the National Leprosarium at Carville, La.

State officials on all levels moved rapidly to get Ernest Goolsby, 55, of Akron out of the penitentiary to allay any apprehension the prison's 8,000 other inmates might develop about the possibility of being exposed to the dread disease. They also wanted to make sure he got proper treatment, which would be impossible in the penitentiary.

Dr. George L. Fite, public health officer of the U. S. Health Department in Washington confirmed yesterday that Goolsby, received Jan. 17 from Summit County to serve a one-to-20 year term for shooting with intent to wound, had neural leprosy.

Goolsby was informed of his ailment and signed a consent to be transferred to the U. S. Marine Hospital in Louisiana, the national treatment center for leprosy. He has been isolated since his arrival at the penitentiary.

Welfare Director J. H. Lamneck wrote to the governor explaining Goolsby could be taken from the prison by the Summit County courts or by an act of executive clemency.

Lausche said: "I will follow the course which will most quickly achieve Goolsby's removal from the penitentiary and his hospitalization at Carville. 'If we can't get action from the judge at Akron, I will do it by appropriate action of executive clemency.'

The governor said he meant by "appropriate action," that Goolsby's sentence "could be commuted on the condition that he be immediately hospitalized and remain on probation until further action by the pardon and parole commission."

Penitentiary Warden Ralph W. Alvis said all the prisoners had learned of Goolsby's case by the prison "grapevine," but they had shown no signs of nervousness — apparently because they knew he was isolated.

Dr. Fite said there was "very slight" danger that any other prisoner would contract leprosy from Goolsby because leprosy is one of the least communicable diseases. Neural leprosy attacks the nerves. It is nodular leprosy, the more widely known variety, which causes big sores and bumps on the body.

Jet Bomber Fleet Eyed

Airforce Places Rush Orders

WASHINGTON, March 2—The Airforce took a "calculated risk" today to get a small fleet of intercontinental, jet-powered atomic bombers by the end of 1952.

The planes will be the B-52, a new heavy bomber, and an all jet-powered version of the B-36.

The B-52, quantity production of which is being ordered immediately although it has not yet flown, is a larger model of the Boeing B-47 Stratofortress medium bomber that has averaged 608 miles an hour across the continent.

The B-36 will be a swept-back-wing, all-jet version of the present propeller-driven B-36 which once was described officially as "almost invulnerable" at 40,000 feet. Two experimental models of the new B-36 are to be completed this year.

AIRFORCE Secretary Finletter disclosed late yesterday that production is being ordered on the B-52. He said "a few" of these will be delivered this year and that production will be larger next year.

Finletter admitted that it is "unusual" to order production of a plane that has not flown, but said "we think the risk is justified in this case." He estimated that the two B-52 prototypes being built can be flight-tested by Fall.

The secretary pointed out that the B-52 "is not entirely a new plane," since it is designed after the highly successful B-47.

The purpose of both the B-52 and the new B-36, he said, is to convert the strategic bombing fleet to all jet planes as rapidly as possible. He added:

"There is no longer any question of the feasibility of atomic powered planes," but that their development will take years. He said the atomic powered plane had just moved out of the "theoretical and speculative stage."

West Coast Bus Drivers On Strike

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2—Pacific Greyhound bus drivers and station employees in the west went on strike today, tying up the company's lines in seven states.

The strike called to enforce demands for a wage increase officially went into effect at one minute past midnight in Arizona, California, New Mexico, Oregon, Texas, Utah and Washington. About 3,600 employees were involved.

OPERATION KILLER GRINDS ON

Marines Grab Hoengsong In Tooth-n-Nail Battle

TOKYO, March 3—(Saturday)—Bayonet-wielding U. S. Marines chopped their way through the vital mid-Korean highway hub of Hoengsong Friday against fierce Communist opposition that extended along the entire 60-mile central front.

The tank-paced Leathernecks wrested the road center from Chinese forces and slammed 2,000 yards northward to take the commanding ground between Hoengsong and the 38th Parallel, 34 miles to the north.

To the east of the Marines, the U. S. Seventh and Second Divisions and South Korean troops were meeting "determined" resistance in their push for the important lateral highway from Hoengsong to Pangnim, 24 miles east of the newly-captured town.

Air reports said the hills north of the east-west road were "swarming" with Reds digging foxholes to resist the grinding of "Operation Killer."

Walnut School Seeks Special Operating Levy

A resolution seeking a special election to place a four-mill tax levy before voters in the Walnut Township school district has been filed in Pickaway County board of elections office.

The resolution, filed by the Walnut school board, calls for the special election to be held April 10. The board of elections is expected to act on the request Friday night.

The levy would bring in approximately $48,000, would run for two years.

If passed, it would relieve the school's current financial worries. Low funds have caused some school employees to be apprehensive about their next pay checks.

The levy would be used for current operating expenses, including teachers' salaries.

Townships affected by the levy would be parts of East and West Walnut and Circleville in Pickaway County and Royalton and Amanda in Fairfield County. The tax would amount to 40 cents on each $100 of property valuation.

According to County School Superintendent George D. McDowell, if the levy fails to pass, the only alternative would be to cut down on the school's departments. He said the school has nine departments which could be whittled down.

warned that no easy victory is in sight.

In his Friday communique, the supreme commander said the enemy "potential to defend somewhere near the 38th is unimpaired in spite of heavy current losses and the attrition of his supply lines."

The tough Leathernecks of the First Marine Division climaxed a violent two-day struggle with the capture of Hoengsong.

The Devil Dogs hacked their way to the top of Hills 303 and 208 on the west side of Hoengsong against terrific Chinese resistance.

Then the Marines swarmed from the heights through the town and captured the bowl-like ridge to the north.

The heated battle was for the two rugged, well-defended hills to the west. Relentless air and artillery fire pounded the hills and then the Marines dug out the enemy with bayonets and hand grenades in tooth-and-nail fighting.

The battle-hardened veterans spent Thursday night in frigid forward foxholes under enemy fire rather than pulling back into a perimeter defense. Thus they were able to get the jump on the Reds when dawn came Friday.

MARINES ENTERING the town reported finding still unburied bodies of UN soldiers who fell there when the Chinese recaptured the road hub three weeks ago.

The town has been the immediate focal point of UN attacks in Central Korea since "Operation Killer" started.

Americans and South Koreans fighting for control of the Hoengsong-Pangnim lateral were meeting ever-stiffening resistance. The Second and Seventh Divisions reported carving out 2,000-yard gains in the area.

MacArthur said in his Friday communique that 18 Chinese divisions and 13 North Korean divisions are fighting on the front lines.

Sen. Vandenberg Condition 'Poor'

GRAND RAPIDS, March 2—Michigan Republican Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg today was reported in "very poor condition."

Vandenberg's physician, Dr. A. B. Smith, declined further comment about the 67-year-old statesman. The senator suffered a relapse Tuesday in a lung ailment which has plagued him for two years. He underwent surgery in 1949 and was able to return to Washington only briefly last year.

GOVERNOR LEAVES PROBLEM TO LAWMAKERS

Any New Ohio Taxes To Be Written By Assembly, Lausche Message Says

COLUMBUS, March 2—Governor Lausche's $729 million budget message carefully but completely dumps into the lap of the Ohio Legislature the entire problem of new finances—in other words, of new taxes.

The all-time record budget is, in the governor's own words, "a pay-as-you-go budget which reflects rock-bottom need."

But there are definite hints that it is up to the lawmakers whether they wish to take advantage of them.

The only tax increase proposed by the chief executive is the minor one of increasing the state's take on parimutuel horse race betting. This Lausche proposes to increase from $650,000 to about $1.5 million.

Otherwise, Lausche proposes no tax changes. But he makes a contingent recommendation that the legislature, if it does increase revenues—in other words, raise taxes—give "priority" to raising standards of care in our mental, penal and correctional institutions.

The governor pointed out that the submitted figures fall

$9 million short of providing funds sufficient to meet "in full" the standards of the American Psychiatric Association. But he carefully left the problem of meeting these standards to the solons themselves.

The governor, in his first message to the legislature Jan. 10, recommended the substitution of a gross receipts tax for the present three percent coupon sales tax.

If carried into effect, this would make possibly as much as $50 million a year more available to meet, not only welfare needs, but also other demands, such as those of schools, local governments, and increased pension advocates.

The senate judiciary committee now is considering a substitute proposal by Republican Sen. C. Stanley Mechem (R-Nelsonville) which would merely amend the present sales tax law.

By making casual sales of autos taxable—this alone would produce from $10 to $17 million a year—and plugging other loopholes, Mechem hopes to add perhaps $20 million a year to collections under the present law.

But the governor doesn't mention—directly—either of the two proposals. He merely states "if the legislature makes provision for increased revenues beyond that estimated in the budget."

He also left wide open the door to an increase in the state's current gasoline tax, which is earmarked by constitution solely for highway purposes.

He again contented himself with pointing out the way: "With the revenues that are now being collected, it is impossible to modernize the roads."

He came a bit closer to an outright recommendation with regard to the proposed ton-mile tax on heavy freight trucks. Here he stated that the adoption of the ton-mile levy "will definitely compel these heavy truck operators who are doing the greatest damage to our highways to contribute in an equitable proportion to the funds needed to maintain and construct the roads which they use."

Nevertheless, the highway budget remained balanced—with out consideration of the ton-mile tax. Again, the problem was left to the legislature.

There were two outstanding warnings in the message. In one, aimed at local governments who cry for state aid instead of attempting to raise revenues locally, the governor declared:

RFC PROBE OFF ON TANGENT

Senator's Race Bet Deal Fouls Up Investigation

WASHINGTON, March 2—The reported—and emphatically denied—race bet financing of Sen. Joe McCarthy (R-Wis.), by a heavy government borrower eclipsed all other business today in the Senate influence peddling investigation.

E. Merl Young, husband of a White House stenographer, exploded the McCarthy story late yesterday at the Fulbright subcommittee's hearings on influence and favoritism in the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

Young, accused of selling his influence in high places, asserted that he saw Carl Strandlund, president of the defunct Lustron

Housing Corp., lend McCarthy "a lot of money" at the 1949 Preakness Handicap at Pimlico, Md., and then "tear up the checks" McCarthy gave him in repayment.

Strandlund, whose now bankrupt firm borrowed $37.5 million from RFC, immediately followed Young on the witness stand to deny that any such thing occurred. Both men were under oath.

A SHORT TIME later McCarthy, in Bethesda naval hospital after a sinus operation, also denied the story.

The senator said he wrote a $100 check to Strandlund to provide cash for "two young lawyers" who were with him, and that the check was cashed by the housing executive and would be put in the subcommittee's records. McCarthy said the only check torn up was a $50 check, which was included in the larger one.

This matched Strandlund's version of the incident, except that Strandlund thought it had occurred at the Laurel, Md., track.

Sen. Capehart, (R) Ind., ranking GOP member of the subcommittee, said he thought "it would be wise" to call additional witnesses to clear up the McCarthy matter.

Young had testified that Don-

U.S. Diplomatic Delegation Eyes Big 4 Paris Parley

WASHINGTON, March 2—A United States diplomatic delegation, instructed to work for some degree of European peace, but pessimistic about its possibilities, leaves for Paris today.

The small group of technical experts headed by Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup left for New York by train at noon and will enplane for Paris at 6 p. m.

The Paris gathering, consisting of the deputies of the foreign ministers of the U. S., Britain, France and Soviet Union, is aimed at drafting an agenda for a full dress meeting of the foreign ministers. This is due to be held in Washington in April.

The proposed Big Four foreign ministers' meeting, originally sponsored by Moscow, has been regarded skeptically by the West's political leaders.

Snowstorm Hampers Rescue Try

7 Others Taken Into Sioux City

SIoux CITY, Ia., March 2—Sixteen persons were reported killed today when a Midcontinent Airlines plane crashed and burned during a heavy snowstorm at the northwest edge of Sioux City airport.

Seven other persons were injured and were brought to St. Joseph's hospital here.

The pilot and co-pilot were among those reported dead. The crash was the second involving a Midcontinent plane this week.

A Midcontinent airliner crashed and burned Tuesday in Tulsa, Okla., but all 34 persons aboard escaped death and only one was injured.

The dead in today's crash were not immediately identified. The injured, according to St. Joseph's hospital, are:

Stewardess Evelyn Woodbury of Kansas City, Mo.

RAY ENGLE, Ipswich, S. D.; a Mr. Lutz of Tripp, S. D.; a Mr. Quam, Bismarck, N. D.; a Mr. Curry, Kansas City, Mo.; a Mr. Roland, Jamestown, S. D.; and a Mr. Hadden, Raymond, S. D. The plane, a DC-3, left Kansas City at 7:15 a. m. for Minneapolis where it was due to arrive at 12:57.

Witnesses said the airliner crashed about 1,000 feet north of the north-south runway of the airport while attempting a landing.

Attendants at the hospital said Quam told them:

"The plane was coming in for a landing when it suddenly shuddered all over, then crashed."

"The next thing I knew I was walking around on the field."

Airport officials summoned ambulances and firemen to the scene.

Icy highways leading to the airport hampered the ambulances.

More Changes In Wage Setup Expected Ahead

WASHINGTON, March 3—Economic Stabilizer Johnston's action in exempting cost-of-living labor contracts from wage controls pointed the way today to new changes in the controversial ten percent wage ceiling formula.

Johnston is expected to order additional modifications of the wage ceiling if the stalemate created by Labor's walkout on the mobilization program continues.

Meanwhile, no immediate settlement of the break between organized labor and the Truman administration is in sight.

In another stabilization field, Price Controller DiSalle is proceeding with his plan of replacing the Jan. 25 price freeze with specific regulations dealing in detail with different phases of the price control problem.

His latest move was approval of a 3.5 percent increase in new automobile prices.

DiSalle extended for 60 days the order setting automobile prices as of the levels prevailing on Dec. 1, with 3.5 modification designed to offset increases in wages and other costs to manufacturers.

DiSalle also plans to issue in (Continued on Page Two) of imposing the taxes if they want the pleasure of spending the money."

This followed his recommendation that the local governments' share of sales tax revenues be cut from $18 to $12 million a year.

To offset the cut, the governor pointed out three things: First, a bill is pending to allow subdivisions to levy liquor license fees equal to those imposed by the state. This alone could produce a maximum of $7.6 million a year—more than enough to make up the $6 million cut.

Secondly, he pointed out that, under a law passed two years ago, cities get 30 percent of any excess of revenue collections over estimates. This surplus will amount to at least $18 million which would give the cities $5.4 million.

Schools would get a like amount, and the remaining 40 percent would remain the property of the state.

Third, the governor pointed out that, by law, all real estate had to be re-appraised for tax purposes in 1950. This added $600 million to the local governments' tax base.

Tito Can Lick Red Sattellites, He Tells Writer

LONDON, March 2—Premier Marshal Tito has declared that Yugoslavia would have "no special difficulty" in resisting a combined attack by European Soviet satellite nations on her borders.

Tito, in an interview with a Reuters correspondent, was quick to explain that his forces could handle the situation "if they attacked alone." He admitted that if the satellites were joined by so-called "volunteers" as in the case of Korea "that is another thing."

The Yugoslav leader said that war in the near future need not be expected, but conceded that in the present-day situation "there exists that possibility and we must be cautious."

To a question on whether he thought the ultimate aim of Soviet policy was to dominate the world, Tito emphatically replied:

"It is clear that it is their intention."

Tito said he did not agree with the recent statement of Soviet Premier Stalin that America has aggressive intentions against the rest of the world.

Cancer Society Seeking Added Federal Funds

CLEVELAND, March 2—The American Cancer Society is urging the federal government to today to increase the budget for cancer research under the National Cancer Institute by $13,825,000.

A recommendation for the federal expenditure of greater sums for cancer research was made late yesterday by the society's executive board, which concluded a two-day meeting in Cleveland.

The society also asked the government to allocate $9 million to complete a $25 million program for construction of research laboratories.

The National Cancer Institute's current budget is $19,157,000.

The society awarded its distinguished service medal to Dr. Lawrence A. Pomeroy of Cleveland for being the Ohioan who had given "the most outstanding service to cancer control."

The award was presented to Pomeroy by Dr. E. O. Schwartz of Cincinnati, president of the Ohio State Medical Society, and Dr. Guy Aud of Louisville, Ky., president of the American Cancer Society.

Retail Business Here Reported Off A Fraction

A slacking of business in Pickaway County during the week ending Feb. 17 compared to the corresponding week in 1950 was noted in a report of sales tax stamps sold here.

State Treasurer Roger W. Tracy reported that sales in the county were $3,497.12 for the mid-February week. This was $53.69 under the mark set for the same week a year ago, when $3,550.81 was collected.

Sales of the tax stamps for the fiscal year up to Feb. 17 was considerably ahead of last year, however, $187,533.33 to $162,652.13.

Throughout the state gross sales of prepaid tax stamps shown by industry classification revealed that clothing, general and department stores and furniture sales for the week ending Feb. 17 were under sales for the same week last year.

Boggs To Head Agricultural Mobilization

John G. Boggs, in addition to his duties as chairman of the Pickaway County Production and Marketing Administration committee, has been appointed by the secretary of agriculture to head the recently organized county agricultural mobilization committee.

Boggs, whose farm is located in Pickaway Township, has been county PMA chairman since 1933.

Membership in the committee will include the chief official of all agricultural agencies and farm organizations in the county.

"We will start functioning immediately," Boggs said Friday, "in an effort to gear agricultural knowledge, experience, and facilities to the present mobilization job. The committee will also be expected to redirect policies and programs which will contribute to maximum cooperation in the defense effort."

One of the committee's first duties will be to attend a district meeting Monday in Columbus, sponsored by the Ohio State Agricultural Mobilization Committee for the purpose of discussing 1951 production guides for the state.

These guides call mainly for increased acreages of corn and soybeans and the maintenance of present production levels of other essential commodities. Guides were announced last week on a state basis and will be made public on a county basis after the district meetings.

"With members of all our agricultural agencies working together in a unified mobilization effort, we hope to put Pickaway County over the top in providing its share of the production so essential for our nation's needs," Boggs said.

DETROIT, March 2—A 34-year-old Detroit widow is more than $7,000 richer today because a jitterbugging dance instructor lost his grip.

A circuit court jury has awarded Mrs. Theresa Schnepf $3,500 damages and $3,645 for doctor's bills. Defendants were the operators of the Arthur Murray Studios of Dancing.

Mrs. Schnepf testified she fell and broke her arm while learning to jitterbug at the studio a year ago when her dancing instructor relaxed his grip, causing her to slip on a highly polished floor.

Teen Tips

Glamor!

Sometimes it seems just too bad that the poor, overworked word was ever invented. Glamor has become something that too many of us strive for, want and admire, yet it's not possible to have much of it in everyday life. It's dream-stuff made mostly of illusion (moonbeams, star-dust, etc.)—not down-to-earth fact.

Glamor is a fine thing on the screen at your favorite theater, but when you get close to it you find that the glamorous person is actually just another person, not much different from you and me.

It's silly to expect much of it in your life and mine. After all, how can the average girl be glamorous while she helps with the dishes and scurries from class to class in school? And how can most boys seem glamorous in a battered sweat shirt and bedraggled blue jeans while they wash the car or clean the garage? Glamor doesn't come down to earth very well . . . where we spend most of our time.

If you want a friendship or romance that will last, don't look for glamor. Look for the kind of qualities that exist, last and grow in everyday life.

Look for a girl with a pleasant disposition; one who knows that personality is more important than clothes and that money doesn't grow on trees. Look for a boy who realized that he's no Alan Ladd and doesn't expect every girl to be a home-town version

"With members of all our agricultural agencies working together in a unified mobilization effort, we hope to put Pickaway County over the top in providing its share of the production so essential for our nation's needs," Boggs said.

Turkey Asking Yanks To Join Mutual Aid Pact

WASHINGTON, March 2—Turkey was reported today to have asked the United States to join the 1939 British-Turkish-French mutual aid pact.

A State Department source said that the Turks indicated U. S. participation in the pact would assure peace in the Mediterranean.

Turkish Ambassador F. C. Erkin was reported to have laid the proposal before U. S. officials at the request of his government.

It was recalled in Washington that Airforce Secretary Finletter recently visited the Mediterranean area and spent some time in Turkey.

Finletter told newsmen yesterday that the U. S. expects to send jet airplanes to Turkey under a military assistance agreement.

It was recalled that when the Atlantic Pact foreign ministers met in New York to devise a system of defense for the Western nations, Turkey was omitted as an active member, but it was agreed that Turkey would be consulted on anything to do with the Mediterranean area.

THE LIGHT TOUCH

LIGHT comedians are rare in the theater. The English seem to have a special gift for this kind of acting, which is designed to entertain rather than to shock or impress. In the American theater, among men, John Drew was preeminent in this school and there are a few current examples on the stage and in motion pictures.

The English actor, Cyril Maude, dead at 88, was an outstanding light comedian. His gift, in his full phase, ran to the depiction of benign, whimsical gentlemen of somewhat advanced age. His outstanding success was in "Grumpy," in which he appeared more than 1,300 times. Grumpy was an irascible oldster, a retired criminal lawyer, who solved a baffling diamond theft in his own home.

As in the case of George Arliss, Maude became famous in the American theater before English audiences accepted him. Another English actor in this milieu, who made his first success in this country, was Leslie Howard. The English actor, Rex Harrison, appearing in the current New York success, "Bell, Book and Candle," is a light comedian in the Maude tradition.

Light comedies, well written and well acted, are among the most delightful experiences in the theater. The American theater seems to place a premium on works of supposed social significance, in which consideration of various forms of degeneration is often stressed.

But deft acting, in the light comic tradition, not a common gift, has a place in the hearts of audiences.

RAIL CHIEFS' WARNING

SHOULD work stoppages on the railroads be renewed, it will not be their responsibility, say the heads of the four brotherhoods of operating employees. "We cannot," reads a joint statement by them, "sit forever on the safety valve."

But in the same breath in which they assert their good faith, they would appear to try to incite the rank and file by declaring: "The carriers have learned that they have the full support of the courts, through injunction and contempt actions, and of the Army, in imposing conditions by military power."

These are the leaders whom Mr. Truman charged with insincerity for virtually repudiating the December wage agreement after signing it. The tone of the joint statement may reveal the reason for the long continued dispute between management and the brotherhoods. Unfortunately, the whole country, as well as the workers, suffers from such leadership.

By the calendar, at any rate, our "Winter of discontent" will soon be over.

MARCH OF EVENTS

Nevada Atom Tests for Soviet Russia's 'Benefit'?

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—There is strong conviction in Washington that the series of atomic tests in Nevada recently may have been conducted to serve notice on Russia of our atomic strength as well as to experiment on new A-bomb developments.

Observers point out that the tests were publicized more than any previous atomic blasts even though the Atomic Energy Commission clamped a security blackout on any of the details. It is noted that by holding the tests in the continental United States the AEC adopted a course which naturally would lead to wide publication of the event.

The AEC probably could have conducted the experiments just as well in its Eniwetok proving ground in the Pacific and kept them a deep secret until it chose to announce them. However, publicity may have been just what the Atomic Commission wanted.

The Nevada tests certainly demonstrated to Russia and the world that we have plenty of A-bombs and are busy at work improving them.

Atomic Blast

Atomic Blast

The first electricity-producing atomic power plant, the commission's so-called "breeder" reactor, being built at Arco, Id., is nearly ready for unveiling. Engineers say its heat will turn a generator big enough to keep a thousand light bulbs burning.

Although experimental, the plant is bound to be sensational because it will produce more atomic fuel than it burns. It will be man's closest approach to perpetual motion.

What happens is that the "spare neutrons" produced in the atomic

George E. Sokolsky's These Days

The heart of the discussion at the Kyoto conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations (1929) was Manchuria. Papers were read by Chinese, Japanese and American experts. Among the Japanese papers were those read by Masunosuke Odagiri, director of the Yokohama Specie Bank and representative of the Japanese in the international consortium, and Yosuke Matsuoka, who was at one time head of the South Manchuria Railway and afterwards minister of foreign affairs.

The Japanese took the institute very seriously at this time, regarding it as a secondary platform for the discussion of mutual problems, in the anticipation that the Chinese and American governments would pick up issues raised at these meetings.

E. C. Carter emerges as an honorary secretary and as chairman of the program committee of the 1929 conference. Frederick Vanderbilt Field was one of several recorders of the panel discussions, as was Mrs. Field, who is now Mrs. Joseph Barnes. Dr. James T. Shotwell's institute conference research committee had grants totalling $40,600 from the Social Science Research Council. The Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial granted $60,000 for research and that it would provide an additional $50,000 if the institute raised an equal sum. Collaboration in research was established with other bodies such as the Royal Institute of International Affairs in London and the Council of Foreign Relations in New York.

In 1928, the institute established its monthly paper, "Pacific Affairs," to which experts on Far Eastern affairs for many years contributed interesting and important articles.

The absence of Russia from the 1929 conference was regarded as a very serious matter. I met many of the delegates to that conference as they visited China before and after it and found that the American and British delegates felt that Russia should have been present to make the discussions, particularly with regard to Manchuria, complete.

However, during 1928, Merle Davis and C. F. Loomis of the secretariat of the Institute of Pacific Relations visited Moscow. The official report states that Davis met with foreign office officials and Third International leaders to whom he explained the purpose of the institute. Although the Russians were not prepared to join this international group, it was decided that the "Society for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries" would accept responsibility for correspondence and liaison with the institute headquarters in Honolulu.

Having reached this agreement, Davis was able to meet with Russia's Far Eastern specialists attached to Russian scientific societies, particularly those interested in Far Eastern and Pacific questions. Thus the liaison with Soviet Russia was established.

By 1929, the American council of the institute had established itself as an important body, its officers being Jerome D. Greene, chairman; Wallace M. Alexander, Miss Ada L. Comstock, and Thomas Lamont, vice-chairmen; Carter, secretary-treasurer. In 1930, Field's name appears as assistant secretary.

SYNOPSIS
Just prior to the War of 1812, pioneer Quint Darby and his wife, Rhoda, settle on the Niagara river across from Canada. Here they prosper and make friends, but a nagging tyrant kills what love there was between them and Quint turns to the hope of building merchant ships. He is poise informed as to the Mohawk tribe's activities across the river, by a handsome young half-breed bravo, Peter Brant. Fleeing to Canada, Darby's rich, aristocratic and long-estranged brother Alex, a Tory, and his son, stop at the Darby Tavern. Alex's teen-age daughter Jennet is lodged at a nearby inn. Rhoda thrills to their social prestige.

CHAPTER FOUR
QUINT made no answer, but went to the door and bade Toby find his mistress. Rhoda came into the room, in a fresh calico dress, her hair shining with brushing.
"My brother Alec, Rhoda. My nephew, Richard."
She answered their greetings cordially, but without effusion, her head with its crown of braids, high. Quint was pleased at her poise before them. He saw their eyes returning to her with approval. Only the high color on her face spoke the deep excitement she was feeling, and Quint alone knew the sign.
"A nicely reserved young woman," said Alec of Rhoda to Quint out at the wagon. "Comely, too," he added. Then, with the smile Quint remembered too well, "To your credit to have found such a she!"
Quint asked, "At what time do you wish to cross?"
"Two—two-thirty at the latest. The passage fee—I have not asked you about that."
"Gratuitous, in this instance," smiled Quint.
The wagon drove off, with a great jangling of harness, young Richard on his horse ahead. The little group watching from the tavern door, double in number since Alec had come, went back into the taproom.
Quint had no wish to join them. He knew that for the next hour talk of his brother's ostentatious arrival at the frontier would take precedence over every other topic. It was some twenty years since Quint had cut himself off from his family and now by this twist of circumstances he and Alec were thrown together again. He doubted that Alec, for all the amiability he had shown, was any more pleased by it than was he. Quint frowned. Not the least of his disquiet was a suspicion for which he had no words ready: that there was more behind Alec's move into Canada than his professed wish to live in a congenial community. Newark, on the Canadian shore of the lower Niagara, lovely village though it was, had nothing of the social pomp of New York City to which Alec was accustomed. Young Richard, too. The girl, Jennet...
And why, having brought Jennet this far, was Alec leaving her here on the frontier? Alone, except for the woman companion. Quint remembered Becky's plight. He should have told Alec that even Hodge's was no safe place for a young girl...
The midday bustle and the odor of good food filled the tavern. In the kitchen, a hen was peeping fowl on plates for Becky to carry to the taproom: Rhoda was superintending both in their work.

She saw Quint coming, crossed the room to the door, stood before him. She spoke tensely. "Did you tell your kin I was a bond girl?"
Quint looked his surprise at this question. "Tell them? No. Even if I had talked of my—of our affairs, I would not have thought to speak of that."
Her voice held a musing note. "It will be pleasant visiting in Newark."
Quint was not certain that she was speaking to him, but he answered.
"This more miles away than my brother knows."
"With horses as fine as his, a wagon..."
"His ways are not our ways."
"We can make our ways over. Come, now, eat your dinner, before the rappings for food begin in the other room."
It had been a long time since Quint had heard her speak to him in so kindly a way. Even though the price of it was not to his liking, he felt he should be grateful for it.
By two o'clock the taproom was crowded. Toby put hard to it to fill and refill his orders. Eyes kept going to the door, ears were keyed to catch the first sounds of the roll of wheels.
Then the wagon came, heavily loaded. Now Richard rode with his father in the wagon. Richard's manner was all avid eagerness, Alec's aloofness. He ignored the little crowd on the stoop of the tavern. "The ferry ready?" he asked Quint.
The ferry was ready.
When they had gone, Quint's thoughts turned to little Becky and to strange, weird Sabrina Meachan. No one knew from where Sabrina Meachan had come. Or why she had come, alone, to the frontier. One autumn evening she had ridden up the lane to Job Steers' farmhouse, ten miles or so inland, in Clarence Hollow, got off her horse, knocked on the door and asked for a night's lodging. It so happened that Job Steers at the moment lay sick unto death with fever. Two children in the family had died of it the week before. Myra Steers told of this through a crack of the door. Whereupon Sabrina pushed the door open, walked in, as she did so removing the man's rough coat she wore and the coonskin cap. "Sit down," she said to Myra Steers, who was so worn with grief and nursing that she gladly dropped down onto a wooden bench near at hand. At measured Sabrina stirred up the fire, measured water to heat, went out to her saddlebags, and returned with some herbs which she dropped in warming water to steep. All without a word. "It was like she put a spell on me," Myra said to one or another afterwards.
"She laid her hands on Job's head. She kept them there. He quieted and the fever run out of him. 'Twas her hands as much as the brew she fixed him."
Myra's story went up and down the river. There was sickness in the Buffalo settlement and Sabrina was besought to go there. And into each stricken home she went she carried with her her herbs and her healing hands.
She stayed on after that. But not in the Buffalo settlement; she secured land on Guidepost road.

Kiernan's ONE MAN'S OPINION

In the middle of this talk about whether Mr. Truman will run again, he says he would like to try a parachute drop. Just can't keep up with this man.

We're wondering about him running and he's wondering about jumping.

But it would be an unusual way to enter Convention Hall. Certainly coming through the sky light would attract more attention than coming in on the ground floor.

It is true that most candidates come in with their hopes flying high, but usually they never get their boom off the ground.

We don't know whether Senator Tom Connally has thought about parachuting, but he sure sounds like he's ready to take the controls of a jet and fly it to Europe himself if he can't get an army over there in the next ten minutes.

Tom's acting real aggressive for a man of his age who doesn't personally plan to fight anybody.

A Condition That May Follow Childbirth Or an Operation

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MOST people are amazed to learn that the blood is capable of clotting in the blood vessels. Such a situation is certainly not normal and yet it does happen in a number of different circumstances. It is particularly likely to occur in the veins of the legs as an aftermath to childbirth or operation. The resulting condition, known as thrombophlebitis brings with it a good deal of discomfort since the area around the clot becomes painful and inflamed, plus the threat of graver damage due to the possibility that a bit of the clot may break off and be carried by the blood to such vital organs as the heart or lungs.

This type of accident can often be prevented by the use of substances which interfere with the clotting of the blood. So far, two such drugs are available—heparin and dicoumarol. Heparin is given by injection into a vein, into a muscle, or under the skin. Dicoumarol is taken by mouth.

Given by Mouth
The dicoumarol has some advantages over the heparin, namely, it is less expensive and can be given by mouth. However, there are also certain disadvantages. When it is first given, there is a delay of from two to three days before its greatest effect is produced. Therefore, when there is immediate danger of the formation of emboli, it may be better to give the heparin first, since it acts immediately. Another disadvantage of the dicoumarol is that after it is discontinued, its effects may persist for from two to seven days.

The response by different persons to the drug also varies and cannot be predicted. Therefore, it is necessary to make tests of the blood to establish the prothrombin clotting time daily while the dicoumarol is being given.

If these tests are carried out each day, it is possible to determine just about how much of the drug should be administered daily to produce the desired effect. If it is found that the clotting time has become too long, of course the drug must be stopped and the patient may be given an injection of whole blood into a vein. He should also be given vitamin K preparations by injections into a vein every four hours until the clotting time has been satisfactorily shortened.

In many instances, heparin and dicoumarol may be used together with quite satisfactory results.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
M. G.: What are the symptoms of a fibroid of the uterus? Is surgical removal of the uterus necessary for this condition?
Answer: The symptoms of a fibroid of the uterus consist of irregular bleeding along with pain; usually blood clots are also passed. The menstrual period may be unduly prolonged.
Operation is usually the best method of treatment.

Hans Wagner, the immortal Pittsburgh shortstop, is probably the all-time outstanding star of the National League (Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth share the honors in the junior major loop). Dear Mrs. Housewife:
Like To Serve 6 Meals
A Day Instead Of Three?

Denmark Customs
Are Given Here

How would you like to plan, cook and serve six meals each day instead of the usual three?

If you were a housewife in Denmark, that would be your task, according to information brought back to Pickaway County by Miss Betty Jean Riddle who as a foreign exchange student spent four and a half months in Danish households.

"These meals aren't little snacks," said Miss Riddle, "they are large meals which are served at 6 a. m., 9 a. m.; noon, 3 p. m., 6 p. m. and the last at 9 p. m."

Miss Riddle said, "When I came back from Denmark I weighed 20 pounds more than I did when I left the States—and it was all gained eating the rich food that is served in the average Danish household."

"One of the first dishes I ate was a large bowl of huge strawberries that grow in abundance in Denmark. And they were smothered in thick whipped cream."

She said, "At 3 in the afternoon everyone serves coffee with five to ten different kind of cake and cookies. Every guest must eat at least two pieces of each in order not to offend the hostess."

When she was asked if the Danish women were fat, she answered: "No, they aren't. But most of them are large boned and big women, but they work hard and lead such active lives including evening sessions of gymnastics and long bicycle rides that they keep their weight down."

She remarked that "in spite of their modern homes the Danish women do their laundry much the same way it was done in this country 100 years ago."

How do they get any work done with all this time out for eating?

She answered that "the Danes live much easier than we do. They don't dash around in a constant mad whirl—their attitude is, 'what we don't get done today, we will do tomorrow.'" She added:

"They also have a lot of help in their homes. The young women go into the household and help with the cooking and cleaning in order to learn how to be good housewives. A young Danish girl doesn't feel that she is ready for marriage until she has learned to be by actual experience to run a household efficiently."

Miss Riddle told of a very simple device used by the housewife in Denmark to prepare her food in advance. She said:

"They cook potatoes in the morning, put them hot into a straw-filled box, cover the pan with straw and the potatoes stay hot until they are served."

"Potatoes are one of the main crops. Each year at the time of the potato harvest the schools are closed for the two week 'potato holiday' when everyone digs and picks up the potatoes."

Thomases Back
After Trip South

Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Thomas of Circleville Route 2 have returned from a 30-day motor trip through the southwestern states.

In El Paso, Texas, they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dresbach, former Circleville residents now living in California, who accompanied them to Mexico City, Veracruz and 1500 miles into the Mexican interior where they saw the ancient Aztec pyramids.

They also witnessed a bull fight and visited an active volcano.

"It is the usual thing to see the Danish women and girls smoking cigars," she related. "Most girls begin smoking when they are about sixteen. It is an accepted custom."

She also said that "the Danes drink a lot of beer. They drink it warm with their food, but no one gets drunk. They know their capacity and when to stop drinking. It is a real disgrace to get drunk." She added:

"We would do well to take a lesson from the Danes when it comes to drinking."

COOKBOOK of the WEEK

From the Collection of 24 of
THE WORLD'S GREATEST COOKBOOKS

SPONSORED BY THIS NEWSPAPER

Whether you are looking for a rich dessert just to please the family or for something to delight the bridge table or the formal party, you will find the recipe you want in "250 Luscious Refrigerator Desserts," sixteenth in the series of twenty-four cookbooks now being made available, a book a week to readers of The Circleville Herald.

This remarkable cookbook contains concise directions for making all kinds of refrigerator desserts—many tried and true recipes and many new and unusual concoctions. Some are quickies and others are more involved. But the tempting illustrations on every page will make you want to try one page after another. For a perfect choice for the dessert of a carefully planned dinner party, you cannot go wrong if you make Biscuit Tortoni:

BISCUIT TORTONI

1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
1 tablespoon cold water
1 cup sugar
½ cup water
6 egg yolks
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup crushed macaroons
¾ cup chopped nut meats
¾ cup chopped blanched almonds

1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups heavy cream, whipped

Soften gelatin in water 5 minutes. Boil sugar, water and salt to 230 deg. F. or until sirup spins a thread. Pour slowly over beaten egg yolks, stirring constantly. Add softened gelatin and stir until completely dissolved. Cool. Fold in macaroons, nut meats, vanilla and whipped cream. Pour into paper souffle cups, place in tray of refrigerator and freeze. Serves 15 to 18.

Use 1 cup corn sirup instead of sugar.

If desired, freeze in refrigerator tray instead of paper cups. To get the Refrigerator Desserts cookbook and the wonderful titles that precede it, all you need do is present 15 cents for each book to your independent grocery in Circleville.

Candy making can be such fun—and the results are so rewarding that it is really worth a try just to see what you can do.

But most important of all is to have right recipes and right instructions. For these you must see "250 Ways to Make Candy," the fifteenth cookbook in the Culinary Arts Institute Series.

The Candy Book covers all the rules for all the basic candies—fondants, fudges, taffies, caramels, brittle candies, and so on—and the specific recipes are a further guide to the making of delicious candy. Besides, there are beautiful photographic illustrations to show you how the candy should look when finished and to give you additional ideas for trimming and serving. Here are two recipes for taffy which should do much to make for a happy, jolly evening of taffy-pulling and eating:

OLD - FASHIONED MOLASSES TAFFY

1½ cups sorghum or dark molasses
¾ cup sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon butter
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt

Combine sorghum, sugar and vinegar and cook to 270 deg., or to the soft-crack stage; stir occasionally to prevent burning. Remove from heat, add butter, soda, and salt, and stir just enough to blend. Pour into buttered pans. When cool enough to handle, gather into a ball and pull between ungreased finger tips until firm and light in color. Cut into pieces and wrap in waxed paper. Add a few drops of oil of peppermint or of peppermint extract to the above recipe before pulling.

CHOCOLATE TAFFY

1 cup brown sugar
1-3 cup corn sirup
2-3 cup water
1 cup molasses
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
4 ounces (squares) chocolate, melted
1 tablespoon vanilla

Combine first 6 ingredients. Cook slowly, stirring constantly until mixture boils. Cook to 290 deg. or to soft-crack stage. Pour into buttered pan, pour chocolate over candy and as edges cool fold in toward center. Add vanilla and continue folding until cool

On the Road to Jerusalem

JESUS TAUGHT, BLESSED AND HEALED

Scripture—Mark 10.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
THE EVENTS of this lesson all took place in February and March, A. D. 28. We recently had a lesson on Jesus' activities during one day, and the time depicted in today's lesson is surely an active one, although at the time the Lord was in semi-retirement training His disciples for carrying on His work after His departure from earth.

The scenes described here are nearly all in Perea, west of the Jordan, but the healing of the blind man was near Jericho, as the account says.

Answering the Pharisees, who were ever trying to get Jesus to say something by which they could trap Him, blessing little children; teaching the people, healing the afflicted, and training the disciples for their work, were among His activities during this period. He knew His time on earth was short, although He could not seem to make the apostles conscious of it.

The Pharisees asked Him, "Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife?"

"What did Moses command you?" Jesus asked them.

"Moses suffered to write a bill of divorce, and to put her away," they said.

"For the hardness of your heart"

around him and "seen His kind look when He said, 'Let the little ones come unto Me.'"

Does anyone recall the song and is it sung now?

This lesson also includes the story of the young man who came to Christ, and, kneeling at His feet, asked what he must do to be saved. Jesus told him to obey the moral laws, and he said he had done so all his life.

Then, said Jesus, "Go thy way, sell whatsoever thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven; and come, take up thy cross, and follow Me."

Mark says Jesus looked at the young man and loved him, but the youth went away sorrowing, for he could not bring himself to part with his wealth. Maybe he found out later that riches do not necessarily bring happiness. They may fly away. We never hear about him any more. If he had done as Christ asked, he, too, might now be one of the saints.

Jesus and His followers started their journey to Jerusalem at this time—the last journey of Jesus to that city. Once more He told His disciples of what awaited Him there, but their minds were on other things. James and John, sons of Zebedee, asked a favor of their Master:

MEMORY VERSE

"Whosoever would become great among you, shall be your minister."—Mark 10:43.

he wrote you this precept," said Jesus. "From the beginning of the creation God made them male and female; and they twain shall be one flesh; what therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder."

Later, in a house, Jesus enlarged upon His answers to the Pharisees. The Christian church has always considered marriage a sacred institution, and deplored the modern tendency to divorce—one of our major problems.

The beautiful story of Jesus blessing little children is next. Mothers came to the Lord, bringing their children that they might be blessed. The disciples evidently thought this an interruption to their talk and a bother. They rebuked the mothers.

Jesus grew angry with them—He was "displeased"—and said, "Suffer the little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not; for of such is the Kingdom of God."

And He took them up in His arms, put His hands upon them, and blessed them."

This writer remembers a lovely song we used to sing about this episode in Sunday school, wherein a child wishes he had been present at that time and that he might have had the Master's arm

"Grant unto us that we may sit, one on Thy right hand, and the other on Thy left hand, in Thy glory."

What a small, selfish request to be made at such a time! Jesus asked them if they could face the torture, and martyrdom that He was facing?

They said they could, and He answered them that that fate was surely in store for them, but even so, He had no power to say who should sit on His right side or His left. The other disciples, naturally were displeased with James and John.

Jesus emphasized again what He had told them before, that he who would be greatest among them—deserving of honors—should be their minister—even as He came to minister unto others, not to be served by them.

On the road to Jericho, a blind man named Bartimaeus, cried to Christ for help. Jesus healed him because he had faith.

Doesn't this lesson make us feel ashamed of our rebellion against our responsibilities? Learn to "minister unto others," and not only shall we have God's approval, but our lives—even the world at large—will be the better for our having lived.

Looking Ahead

By George Benson
President
Harding College

A great truth was written when James Russell Lowell penned the following: "One thorn of experience is worth a whole wilderness of warning."

So few people take heed of warning—even though some times "one thorn" can kill!

When Jan Masaryk returned to Czechoslovakia as Premier at the end of World War II, every written record and lesson of history warned him that he could not do business with Communist Russia.

Yet he took the Communists in as partners and had to feel the thorn of experience to know the truth. The Communists took his nation and his life.

Many millions of words have been written, warning the American people that throughout history Socialism has never kept its promises.

These warnings have served to awaken many Americans but many others have let them go unheeded. Voices of warning were raised in England prior to the last war, exposing the historic truth about Socialism, but not enough people heeded.

THE LABOR-SOCIALIST government was voted in and step by step they have been socializing the nation.

The English people now are feeling the "thorn" of experience with Socialism. Since, as Lowell wrote, words of warning are never as effective as a living experience, the story of the 16 Englishmen who have just visited Arkansas to study our coal mining methods is important.

They were interested in coal mining, yes; but their consuming passion was food. It was almost an obsession with them. They were hungry men on leave from a food-scarce Socialist nation. They couldn't hide it; they didn't try. They talked incessantly of the abundance of food here and its scarcity in England.

At almost every meal in Arkansas they were eating big juicy beefsteaks.

Ernest L. Chiverton, their spokesman, said each of them was eating more meat at one meal here than was rationed to him for a full week in England. He'd gained five pounds in three weeks, and the others had likewise gained.

Watching the faces of the Englishmen light up when they spoke of food in America, and then cloud up when they reviewed its scarcity in England, was something I wish a lot of Americans could have seen. In spite of their loyalty to England and the Labor-Socialist government, they were living testimonials to the failure of Socialism, or any other government scheme of universal benevolence.

AFTER FIVE YEARS under Socialism, there isn't enough food; or not enough coal to keep the houses warm; or enough money to buy the meager quantity of things that are available.

And yet the "thorns" are getting more numerous. While the 16 Englishmen have been in America, the meat ration has been drastically reduced again. It now is 4-ounces of beefsteak per person per week, about half what it was during the worst days of World War II.

The weekly cheese ration is 2-ounces, the egg ration, 2 per person per week, as of Feb. 15, 1951. Britain's socialized medical service didn't seem capable of handling the January influenza epidemic; a thousand deaths a week were being recorded, doctors were critically overburdened.

ed, the nationalized hospitals were turning away one out of every three emergency cases, according to factual reports.

Meantime, Socialism's promises to the British workers were being ignored by the paymaster—the government.

Skilled industrial workers were receiving $18 to $22 per week; railroad workers $19, a London stenographer, $15, a bus driver $17. And cigarettes were 50c a pack.

Confronted with the tightening food shortage, many British housewives are rebelling, the Socialists as well as the Conservatives. They've demanded more food or the resignation of Socialist Prime Minister Attlee. But their powerful Socialist government has given them only more Socialism! It has now begun to socialize the great steel and iron industry.

Time Magazine, in reporting the miserable state reached after five years under Socialism, quoted a British doctor: "The strain of living conditions is making people take sleeping tablets like a second vegetable." But, alas, no nation which has accepted Socialism can escape "the thorns," not even on a diet of sleeping pills!

Japan Assured Peace Treaty Is Now In Making

WASHINGTON, March 2—John Foster Dulles held out to the Japanese people today the hope of an early peace treaty and indicated that the United States is contemplating a Pacific defense alliance.

Dulles reported on his Far Eastern mission in a radio address last night. The Republican State Department adviser said that he and Gen. Douglas MacArthur agree that the Japanese have "won the right" to a peace treaty restoring them to equality with other nations.

Dulles declared that a Pacific alliance "would make clear that an armed attack on (any member) from any quarter would be looked upon by the United States as dangerous to its own peace and security."

The State Department official asserted that Australia and New Zealand were pressing for a Pacific pact.

The foundations for a Japanese peace treaty, Dulles said, have been laid by MacArthur's occupation policies, United Nations successes in Korea and the United States' defense program.

The ambassador reported that non-Communist areas in the Pacific "feel a new confidence in the capacity of the United States to lead the free world out of the present morass of peril and confusion."

The average American family pays $402 for federal, state and local government employees' salaries in a year.

Aussies Name New Ambassador

CANBERRA, March 2 — Appointment of External Affairs Minister Percy Spender as Australian ambassador to the United States was announced today by Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies.

Spender will replace Norman

J. O. Makin who is retiring. The announcement was made by the premier at the opening of a conference of state premiers to put Australia on a "semi-war" footing. The premier disclosed that the cost of the commonwealth's three-year defense plan will be increased from the originally estimated $187 million to $672 million.

Springfield Still Holds To Crown

Class B Champs Not So Lucky

COLUMBUS, March 2 — The state's high school basketball tournament race finds only one defending champion in the running today as Springfield Public prepares to defend its Class A crown tonight in Troy.

Miller City, Ohio's Class B titlist, sits back to watch after suffering a one-point setback last night which routed the second-division king from tourney competition.

Springfield Public (12-5) meets Springfield Catholic (8-8) tonight and the winner tangles March 9 with the survivor of tonight's Bellefontaine-Fairmont contest.

If the Wildcats can hurdle Catholic and take the March 9 encounter, their last barrier in the Troy division will follow the next day.

U.S. Athletes Take Lead In Pan-Am Games

Buenos Aires, March 2 — Uncle Sam's "old reliable" track and field stalwarts raised the Red, White and Blue banner into a comfortable lead in the unofficial battle for team honors today at the first Pan-American Games.

Mal Whitfield, Bob Richards and Jim Fuchs, three prominent figures in track's "who's who," scored triumphs at the games yesterday to give the U. S. 104 points in the team race. Argentina trails in second place with 83 points.

The most spectacular triumph of all was Whitfield's in the 800-meter final. The Olympic champion, who is an Airforce sergeant with a Korean battle star, led teammates Bill Brown and Hugo Maiooco home in a 1-2-3 grand slam finish. It was the game's first clean sweep.

Whitfield, who was timed in 1:53.2, finished with Brown, a Bel Air, Md., teacher, at his shoulder.

Richards, the only other man besides Cornelius Warmerdam to vault 15 feet, won his event without any trouble at all.

THE MUSCULAR little California minister did 13 feet, 2 inches to win, 13 feet, 8 inches to break the South American record and then treated the fans to a real thrill by vaulting 14 feet, 9 1/4 inches.

Fuchs, the king-sized world shotput king, captured the discus throw with a toss of 160 feet, four inches.

The Wake Forest baseball team blasted out seven home runs and made merry on the basepaths to win their second game by a lopsided score. This time it was 23-4 and the victim was Brazil. The U. S. also took the lead in the individual pentathlon thanks to the terrific shooting of James Thompson of Boise, Idaho.

New Suspect Is Questioned In Cage Fix

NEW YORK, March 2 — A new suspect in the college basketball bribery scandal was questioned in a Manhattan hotel room early today immediately following his return from Florida, escorted by two law enforcement officers.

The suspect arrived in New York with Assistant District Attorney William P. Sirignano and Detective James Canavan.

The New York Daily Mirror said the man was a former Long Island university player. Five members of LIU teams already have been enmeshed in the widening scandal over fixing games to enrich gamblers. One of these, former star Eddie Gard, described as a go-between, has been "cooperating very well" with District Attorney Frank S. Hogan's investigation.

Gard was reported to have named the new suspect.

To date, 10 New York college players or former players have been arrested on charges of accepting bribes to throw games or chisel the point spread so gamblers could win.

Despite a denial by Hogan, reports persisted that he is investigating a sure-thing betting syndicate which reputedly won millions by rigging the outcome of various sports.

In the final contest, East, coached by Paul "Bucky" Walters, former Circleville high school star athlete, roared into a comfortable 21-5 lead in the first quarter over the locals, following through with a double-score, 34-17 margin at the midmark.

Both teams substituted freely during the fracas as East registered a 50-27 lead going into the final frame, while Circleville pulled up to within 19 points of the powerful Waltersmen as the game ended.

Glitter and fanfare of the district tournament was especially enjoyed by Lanky Clarence Boyd, Tiger reserve center this season, who broke into the varsity lineup during the final contest to rack up two points for Circleville.

Dane Warning That Socialism May Come To America, Too

Betty Jean Riddle Talks To Clubmen

Farm Production Is Outlined

"The United States will be just like (Denmark) if they aren't very careful."

That is the opinion of a Danish woman who was speaking to Miss Betty Jean Riddle concerning the socialistic form of government now prevailing in Denmark.

Miss Riddle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russel Riddle of near Orient and now a student in Ohio State university, was in Denmark last summer as an exchange student.

Miss Riddle addressed the weekly Rotary luncheon meeting held in the Elks dining room Thursday telling of her observations and experiences while in Northern Europe.

As an exchange student, Miss Riddle lived in the homes of two Danish families, helped with the farm and housework and shared their recreation and community life.

AFTER AN orientation period in Washington, D. C. Miss Riddle and the other students were flown to London visiting 13 countries in all while overseas.

She said, "When I went to the farm where I was to stay, the first thing that impressed me was the very modern homes. They are just as modern as any in Circleville."

Speaking of the crops grown on the farms and the methods of agriculture practiced Miss Riddle said:

"They grow oats, wheat, sugar beets and barley. Their yields are about twice as large per acre as ours, and they accomplish this by extensive use of fertilizer; they use double the amount that we do and they make every inch of land produce." She added.

"They have a much larger labor force than we do. The Danish farmer cultivating 100 acres usually has four or five men working on his land and in the dairy barns."

"THEY HAVE a lot of rain and they keep right on working regardless of the weather."

"Because of the rainfall, grain is cut and stored in the barns to dry and then threshed in the wintertime."

"Danish hogs are very peculiar looking. They are long and thin with floppy ears and occasionally they are crossed with the shorter fatter variety and some of the combinations resulting are very funny indeed."

"The Danes produce the leaner variety of swine for the English market but have had to change to a different variety now that England has no dollars to buy from Denmark."

She was asked about Marshall Plan aid to Denmark and said: "Farm implements which the Danes have were not given to them. They had to buy them just as our farmers do at the prevailing market price."

Miss Riddle, when asked about the socialistic form of government in Denmark, said:

"It is definitely socialistic. They have eradicated tuberculosis with their government health plan; they have excellent hospitals and homes for the aged, but the people pay heavily with high taxes."

"They pay 100 percent tax on an automobile in Denmark."

"Churches are government owned and controlled. They are locked all week and only open

Grass, Legume Seed Prices Fall From Year Ago

WASHINGTON, March 2—The Agriculture Department says that retail prices of grass and legume seeds bought by farmers for Spring planting are lower than a year ago.

Officials say that the lower prices for these seeds reflect record total supplies.

On the other hand, the officials say that farmers are paying higher prices now than last year for important seed grains—mainly because of higher market prices for grains.

According to the department's latest price report on Feb. 15, red clover seed prices were down 23 percent, sweet clover, 24 percent; and timothy seed declined 47 percent from last Spring's record high.

A sharp drop in redtop prices returned them to about the usual relationship with bluegrass. Smooth brome prices were only about half the record high of last Spring.

Seed potatoes were down, reflecting lower prices for table stock. But hybrid seed corn prices were up and averaged $10.30 a bushel, compared with $9.94 in mid-February 1950.

At the middle of last month, according to the department, seed wheat, oats, and sorgho prices averaged about 10 percent higher than a year earlier.

Truman Heading To Florida For Working Vacation

WASHINGTON, March 2—President Truman leaves today for Florida, where he hopes to get a little sun and do a lot of work.

The President will spend about three weeks on his "working vacation" at the Key West submarine base. But there is little prospect that he will be able to leave many of the worries of the White House behind him.

Topmost on the list of urgent problems the President must wrestle is the walkout of Labor leaders on the administration's mobilization pro, "am in a quarrel over 'big business' having a greater representation than Labor."

Mr. Truman indicated, however, that he is not too worried over the development, and will act on it in due time, probably within two weeks.

Meanwhile, the presidential attitude is that the action of Labor leaders is a disagreement rather than a strike against the government.

Mr. Truman will fly to South Florida in his personal four-engine transport, "The Independence." A few members of his staff will accompany him.
